RESPONSE TO THE SECOND DRAFT
Chemical Sensitivity

A Scientific Review of Multiple

After reading the second draft I would like to make the following comments:

- * The information in the second draft is organised more logically.
- * The draft is more objective with the removal of biased, sensationalist wording.
- * I would like to refer to Section 4.4 Treatment of MCS
It is important to list the treatments available in the report, irrespective of whether the ACCC approves or disapproves of such a treatment.
It is important for sufferers of MCS to be able to access treatment that will improve their well being and quality of life.
If that said treatment benefits people and at the same time isn't approved by the ACCC then the ACCC needs to broaden its parameters and be less medically conservative.
